A big thank you to everyone who supported our Christmas markets. Lots of new people learned about the 500RH, and bought signed books as Christmas presents.

You can order copies of The Robin Hood 500 Guidebook at most book shops, through the publisher's (Extremis) website, or through Amazon. Or, with your 10% Member Discount, through the 500RH website.

Derwent Valley Mills, birthplace of the modern factory.

There's more to the 500RH than just Robin Hood!
22 years ago, on 13th December 2001, UNESCO's World Heritage Committee gathered to decide which historic sites should be added to their World Heritage List. One of those sites was the Derwent Valley Mills, birthplace of the modern factory, where for the first time, mass-production, clocking-on, shiftwork and so many other elements of our modern world were established. Derbyshire's Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site remains the only World Heritage Site in the East Midlands. LINK

The 500RH passes through Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site, on its journey along the A6 in Derbyshire. I include much more history in the 500RH Guidebook.
